

Ordinance No. ####-##

Ordinance to Amend City Code to Restrict the Sale and Use of Polystyrene Foam Food Service Products

WHEREAS, global plastic production and consumption has increased significantly since the introduction of plastic to the manufacturing industry in 1950, producing nearly 8.3 billion tons of plastic in total as of 2015, and manufacturers produce more than 300 million tons of plastic annually; and

WHEREAS, plastic is a derivative of oil and natural gas by products and plastic production is expected to comprise 20% of oil consumption worldwide by 2050; and

WHEREAS, waste mismanagement causes 60% of consumed plastic to settle in landfills and the natural environment and nearly 8 million tons of plastic to enter the ocean; and

WHEREAS, the chemical composition of plastic makes plastics unable to biodegrade and leads plastics to break down into tiny fragments known as microplastics that are consumed by fish and bioaccumulate in the food web, which threatens public health and safety.

WHEREAS, polystyrene foam products are created from processes that modify plastic materials, which are derived from byproducts of oil and natural gas; and

WHEREAS, volunteers at the Clean Ocean Action Annual Beach Sweeps collected 1,383 polystyrene food containers, 24,127 polystyrene pieces, 3,169 foam cups respectively in 2018 from 60 locations along the Jersey Shore, which mark a 49%, 14%, and 8% increase in collection compared to the previous year; and
